STROBE—checklist of items that should be included in reports of observational studies (http://www.strobe-statement.org/),

Human and Animal Studies

Manuscripts submitted for publication must contain a statement to the effect that all human studies have been reviewed by the appropriate ethics committee and have therefore been performed in accordance with the ethical standards described in an appropriate version of the 1975 Declaration of Helsinki, as revised in 2000. It should also be stated clearly in the text that all persons gave their informed consent prior to their inclusion in the study. Details that might disclose the identity of the subjects under study should be omitted. Experimental animal studies should be presented with the disclosure of the appropriateness to the institutional/national/international ethical guides on care and use of laboratory animals.

Reports of animal experiments must state that the “Principles of laboratory animal care” (NIH publication No. 85-23, revised 1985) were followed, as well as specific national laws where applicable.

Dear Colleagues,

Our journal - JTGGA - is at your disposal again with a new issue full of high quality content. I would like to extend my sincere thanks to the scientists submitting their high quality scientific manuscripts to our journal.

In this issue, you will find an important research that presents normative values of intracranial translucency in the first trimester screening of normal singleton pregnancies of the Turkish population. As you all know, clomiphene citrate has some negative effects on the endometrium. On this matter, another interesting research published is the one that determines the effect of vaginally administered local estrogen on endometrial thickness and pregnancy rates in clomiphene citrate stimulated cycles. An exciting study from Georgia aimed to determine the prevalence of dysmenorrhea in female adolescents living in Tbilisi, Georgia; searching possible risk factors and establishing an association, if any, with nutrition and sleep hygiene. An attractive article about metabolic syndrome, trying to identify biochemical factors that serve as predictors for the metabolic syndrome in patients with polycystic ovary syndrome, and investigating the value of adipocytokines in the prediction of metabolic syndrome is also in this issue. Besides these research articles, you will find interesting case reports and a quiz in this issue.

I would like to remind my young colleagues at the beginning of their academic career that our journal is indexed by many internationally accepted databases such as SJIC, Tübitak/Ulakbim Turkish Medical Index, Turkish Citation Index, EBSCO host, SCOPUS, Excerpta Medica (EMBASE), DOAJ database, Gale/Cengage Learning, ProQuest, CINAHL and Index Copernicus. Our young colleagues can also contact the editorial team directly in order to be a reviewer and become actively involved in the evaluation process of our journal.

Besides these scientific studies, I want to report proudly that our 4th Social Responsibility Project - “Just For Me” was held in Rize on June 6-7, 2012 with the support and active participation of distinguished foundation member professors all over the country. Financed solely by our foundation, the project was held in four steps. The first step was the public awareness meetings for the community about general women’s health, gynecologic cancers, pregnancy process and contraception. The conferences for the health professionals such as doctors, nurses and midwives working in the area followed these meetings. Simultaneously, a colposcopy course was held for the first time in Rize by some renowned gynecologic oncology professors in our group. Our colleagues, working in difficult conditions, enjoyed meeting and sharing ideas with experienced scientists and motivated themselves for serving the public. The third step of our project was breast cancer screening at the specially equipped mobile screening vehicle provided by the Cancer Department of the Ministry of Health. The professors have been involved in breast ultrasonography, breast examination and mammography. Two women were diagnosed with cervical cancer and their treatment was planned by the experts. Even this result proved to us that we are successful in this project. Finally, we have visited the Rize State Hospital and donated a NST device for the use of our colleagues. We felt the satisfaction of being involved in a social responsibility project to do something useful for our country. I would like to thank specially the director of this project Assoc. Prof. Batuhan Özmen, all TAJEV members and SERENAS team involved in the project.

I sincerely hope that the third issue of this year will be a valuable contribution for our dear colleagues and Gynecology and Obstetrics community.

Best regards,

Prof. Dr. Cihat Ünlü
Editor in Chief of the JTGGA
President of TAJEV
